America's Connection with the Caillaux Case

A world wide reputation.

The final details of one of the most astounding incidents of the world war will be laid bare next month when Joseph Caillaux, former Premier, will be tried for treason before the Highest Tribunal of France. He is accused of having aided Germany by spreading defeatist propaganda, encouraging a serious revolt of French troops and endeavoring to bring about peace in 1917 when it would have meant the ruination

America's interest in this case is great. When the first fleet of transports bearing our troops left America their destination was known only to the naval officer in command, three or four of the highest officials in our government, and two or three of the highest French officials. Yet it was discovered in the very nick of time that the Germans knew it and had submarines waiting squarely in the only path our ships could take.

How they were foiled and our troops safely landed, and how and why Caillaux has been implicated in this and other crimes, are described in the most intensely interesting article of its kind that has yet been published. It is a genuine "inside story," giving out some amazing facts regarding conditions in France in that eventful year which have hitherto been kept from the public. Read it in the

MAGAZINE SECTION

In the general excellence of its contents the MAGAZINE SECTION of THE SUN compares favorably with the best monthly publications. The articles it contains each week are always interesting and frequently of genuine value, the range of subjects is sufficiently broad to meet the most catholic tastes, while the style is distinctly high quality literature. In addition to the Caillaux story, there will be the following articles:

"Motion Picture Industry Now Ranks Fifth in U. S."
"Henry C. Frick's Boyhood Days." "Watching Plants Grow." "France Goes Dance Mad."

"Isham's Diving Torpedo Shells." 'Serbia's Possibilities.' "Personality of Henry Huntington." "Growth of Debussy Cult." And others
